Dear

With only three weeks and a superficial knowledge of the intricacies of the problem assigned me, I feel that the inclosed paper will be of little value to you or to the Intelligence Community. In some respects I am ashamed to submit such a hasty and poorly organized research attempt.

However, I cannot stress enough the value of my work during the past few weeks in my overall training. I have learned a great deal, and for this fact alone, the past few weeks have been a great success.

Consequently, I look forward to seeing you at your convenience in order to discuss some of the many questions and problems I have encountered in my work with your staff.

Each day I discover how much more I have to learn, and I shall value any guidance and suggestions that you will be able to give to me.

Sincerely, 25X1A9a
